“ I knew Junior as a newborn baby, the delight of his parents. I watched him grow as a young boy, fun-loving and a prankster. I knew him as a man, a 1st cousin, and a friend. A man who cared for his parents and loved his wife and kids. Death is not the end, his bright star lives on through his children. God Bless This Family.

“ The very first time I had to be winched over a hill on a sideboom, Junebugs words was come on bub, I will winch ya and I've got ya, and you will be alright. I will never forget that phone call you made to me at 1:46 the day you was called home. It was a pleasure working with you these last several years. You was not only a co-worker but a friend that was more like family. You will never be forgotten especially by your pipeline family. Rest in peace my buddy.

“ Missy we loved Junior, he was like our own. He always called us, or came by. He had called Grover the night before with condolences for his mom. He will be missed. Life on Middle Fork and the farm will not be the same without Junior. He had been such a close personal friend for so many years. We are proud of him, the the father and grandfather that he was. He was one special person to us. We will be praying for you and the children and grand babies that he loved so much.

“ I remember as kids when my family would visit, all the cousins would head out to the hills behind their house and "hunt" squirrels. More than not, we were just plinking rounds off the branches that the squirrels were sitting on. The squirrels were pretty much laughing at us. A few years ago, just after my dad passed away, Kelli, JM, and I were on our way to visit Aunt Susie. When we were less than a mile from her place, we had a flat tire and Junior came out to help change it and acted like it was no big deal. We were extremely thankful for his help. He will forever be missed. Love Ya'll.
